Kershner Vulcanizing Co., Ltd.

Beginning some two years ago with a pair of plyers and a whole lot of self-confidence and grit, the head of this firm opened up a shop on Alakea street. He worked day and night, trying to convince his customers that he meant to do their work whether they wanted him to or not. He has succeeded so well that today he enjoys one of the best vulcanizing trades in Honelulu. He has also added a manufacturing plant to his shop which has been enlarged to occupy a large basement and two floors. In this manufacturing plant, he is turning out a new "horn bulb" which he calls the "High-flyer," an ad appearing in this issue showing the same in action. He also manufactures a preparation of soapstone to be used on inner tubes, and which is put up in convenient sized tins, for which he finds a ready sale. For thrift and enterprise, we recommend this wide-awake advertiser of ours to any who may wish automobile supplies of any description. If he hasn't it, its a cinch he will get it for you, and promptly, too.
